General

How do I remove paragraph spacing in Word?
Word 2007 and beyond will add a space between paragraphs by default. This space cannot be removed by using the backspace key.

If you don’t want Word to add the extra space, you can turn it off. However, you will need to turn it off every time you open a new document unless you alter the Normal.dot template.

You can remove the space between paragraphs you’ve already typed in your document. Simply highlight the paragraphs and then follow the steps below.

To turn off the space between paragraphs, follow these steps:

1. On the Home ribbon, find the Paragraph section.
2. In the bottom right corner of the section, click the button to show the Paragraph dialog box.

3. Select “Don’t add space between paragraphs of the same style.” You can also change the spacing to 0 pt.
4. Click OK.

5. This step is optional. You can change the default settings on the normal template so that you don’t have to change paragraph spacing every time you open a new document. Click Set As Default. A window will pop up. Select “All documents based on the Normal template.” Click OK.
How do I remove paragraph spacing in Word?

1. Open Word and click on the `Home` tab.
2. In the `Paragraph` section, click on the `Paragraph` button (the one with the paragraphs and a triangle).
3. In the `Indents and Spacing` tab, ensure the `Alignment` is set to `Left` and the `Line spacing` is set to `Single`.
4. Ensure there is no `Before` or `After` spacing set, and that the `Don't add space between paragraphs of the same style` option is selected.
5. Click on the `Set As Default` button to apply these settings to the whole document.

Unique solution ID: #1280
Author: Tu Tran
Last update: 2012-10-29 21:02